Day 1 – Arrival San Jose

Today was primarily a travel day, with most people arriving on their flights to San Jose by early afternoon. Driver Vernon transferred us all to the Orquideas Inn. Following check-in, Frank led a leisurely walk on the lovely hotel grounds, where an outdoor wedding was taking place under the large fig tree. We saw our first Clay-colored Thrushes (the national bird of Costa Rica), Tropical Kingbirds, a Rufous-capped Warbler and some saw a Peregrine Falcon. This was followed by a delicious dinner near the pool, while getting acquainted with each other.

Day 2 – San Jose to Trogon Lodge

We met the late arrivals of our group and assembled for a pre-breakfast bird walk on the hotel grounds with our local guide, Vernon. Species seen included Rufous-naped Wrens, Yellow Warbler, Red-billed Pigeons, Steely-vented Hummingbird, Hoffmann's Woodpeckers, Blue-and-white Swallows, Lineated Woodpecker, Gray-headed Chachalaca (that Bruce first spotted), Blue-crowned Motmot, White-winged and White-tipped Doves, and some saw a Squirrel Cuckoo. After a delicious breakfast on the patio, we loaded the roomy van and set off for the Caribbean slope. During the drive to our lodge, Vernon and Frank provided some information about the Costa Rican economy, geology, and lifestyle. We made a birding stop at Birres hydroelectric reservoir where we saw flocks of Blue-winged Teal and Lesser Scaup, a Least Grebe, and a variety of shorebirds. A Northern Jacana was in a nearby wet meadow.

We arrived at Rancho Naturalista, checked in, and met for a tasty lunch just meters away from feeding birds which included a Black-crested Coquette, Mourning, Rufous-capped, and Golden-winged Warblers, Gray-headed Chachalacas, Buff-throated Saltator, Scarlet-rumped Caciques, and Blue-gray, Palm, White-lined, Passerini's, and Crimson-collared Tanagers (Photo: Frank Mantlik).

Up on the balcony, we were at arm's length from an amazing assortment of feeding hummers including Rufous-tailed Hummingbirds, White-necked Jacobins, Green-breasted Mango, Red-footed Plumeleeter, Brown Violet-ear, Green Hermit, and a Green Thorntail. Mid-afternoon Vernon led us down the drive to see several calling Keel-billed Toucans, Montezuma Oropendolas, Brown Jays, and a Red-billed Pigeon. A colorful flock of birds consisted of Golden-hooded, Bay-headed, and Silver-throated Tanagers and a pair of Green Honeycreepers. Then a walk through the forest led to an area to view a series of small stream pools. As the day waned, we enjoyed witnessing bathing behavior by a pair of Snowcaps, the male showing his bright white "headlight". Also bathing were Violet-crowned Woodnymphs, Purple-crowned Fairy, Kentucky Warbler, and Orange-billed Sparrow. Dinner was followed by reviewing the day's plentiful list of birds.

Day 3 – Rancho – San Antonio – Casa Turire

We met pre-dawn for coffee and a visit to the lighted moth sheet, where a wide variety of birds arrived to snatch a free insect meal. These included Red-throated Ant-Tanagers, Plain Antwreos, Cocoa and Plain Woodcreepers, Tawny-chested Flycatcher, Golden-crowned and Chestnut-sided Warblers, and White-breasted Wood-Wren. After breakfast, the van took us to a wet meadow, where Vernon found for us the very localized White-throated Flycatcher. We also saw Bananaquit, Yellow-bellied Elaenia, Great Kiskadee, Yellow-olive Flycatcher, and Black-headed Saltator. In San Antonio, we birded part of the morning up a side road that leads to El Silencio (Silence Mountain). Soaring raptors included two Short-tailed Hawks and a Barred Hawk. A mixed flock of colorful tanagers included a pair of Black-and-Yellow Tanagers and a Tawny-capped Euphonia. We also saw flocks of Chestnut-headed Oropendolas feeding on figs and gathering nesting material. Brown Jays were noisy. We had nice scope views of a Golden-bellied Flycatcher, Masked Tityra, and Frank pointed out some incredible Heliconia butterflies.

A short ride to the La Mina River brought views, sounds, and photos of three spectacular Sunbitterns! (Photo: Frank Mantlik) We also saw pairs of Torrent Tyrannulets and skulking Bay Wrens. While returning up the Rancho driveway, Vernon, Wanda, and Christine saw a black, sleek, long-tailed mammal race across the road: JAGUARUNDI! Kudos to them for being alert to see this diurnal feline predator.

Following some down time after lunch, we departed by van to the more open grassland habitat at Casa Turire. Here we saw Tropical Pewee, Groove-billed Anis, Southern Lapwings, Eastern Meadowlarks, Red-breasted Blackbirds, Gray-crowned Yellowthroats, Variable Seedeaters, and Blue-black Grassquits. A tour highlight was witnessing a White-tailed Kite feeding on a freshly-caught White-throated Crake. A stroll to the Rio Macho Reservoir netted us Muscovy Duck, Snail Kites, Limpkin (seen and heard), Little Blue Herons, and other water birds. Vernon patiently coaxed a pair of Slaty Spinetails from a dense thicket. After a fine Rancho dinner and the bird list, Vernon led us on a night walk, with great success in seeing a Common Potoo perched on a tree snag and hearing and seeing Mottled Owls. It was a successful end to another eventful day.

Day 4 – Rancho to Trogon Lodge

Following an early 6am breakfast with a White-nosed Coatimundi, we packed up and checked out of Rancho Naturalista. Lisa and Mario had been wonderful hosts and the entire smiling staff waved as we drove away. We would spend this travel day birding our way to our next lodge. Our first stop was Finca Cristina, an organic coffee farm. We enjoyed such birds as Black-throated Green Warbler, Summer Tanager, Plain Wren, and Paltry Tyrannulet as we sipped fresh-ground coffee. A large Owl-Eye Butterfly (Caligo memnon) fed on a banana peel. Ernesto, the birding son of the owners, led us on a bird walk (Tropical Parula, Common Tody-Flycatcher, Yellow-throated Vireo) and gave us a fabulous tour of the farm and processing operation. He and his family work very hard at preserving neotropical migrants and their habitat. Many folks purchased fresh-roasted coffee to take home.

After a pit stop in Cartago (the City of Potatoes), we climbed the Talamanca Mountains before arriving at Paraiso Quetzales for a family-style lunch. The feeders at this cloud-forest lodge were swarming with dozens of Green Violet-ears, and Magnificent and Fiery-throated Hummingbirds. (Photo: Frank Mantlik)

A short walk around netted some new birds: Golden-browed Chlorophonia, Spangle-cheeked Tanager, Band-tailed Pigeon, and Mountain and Sooty Thrushes.

We continued our climb along the Pan-American Highway to the summit of 12,000-foot Cerro de la Muerte. Here we succeeded in seeing pairs of Peg-billed Finches, Slaty Flowerpiercers, Volcano Juncos (Photo: Frank Mantlik), and many Volcano Hummingbirds – all high-elevation specialties. By late afternoon we arrived at the beautiful Trogon Lodge, complete with fabulous gardens and trout ponds adjacent to the pristine Savegre River.

Day 5 –Trogon Lodge and Savegre River

Cool, crisp air and clear skies greeted us during a pre-breakfast walk on the lodge grounds. We saw White-throated Mountain-gem, Mountain Elaenia, Black-billed Nightingale-Thrush, and Louisiana Waterthrush. Vernon once again exhibited his phenomenal bird-finding skills by showing us a secretive, skulking Zeledonia (Wrenthrush).

Later we saw a flock of Sooty-capped Bush-Tanagers and our first singing male Flame-colored Tanager (Photo: Frank Mantlik).

A hearty breakfast prepared us for a fairly strenuous hillside climb in search of some Quetzals. We were a bit late, but still had good views of new birds - Black-capped Flycatcher, Flame-throated Warbler, and Scintillant Hummingbird, among others. Next we traveled further down the river valley, and walked the very birdy “trail to the waterfall”. Here we saw Ochraceous Wren, Tufted and Yellowish Flycatchers, Yellow-winged and Brown-capped Vireos, Spot-crowned Woodcreeper, Black-cheeked and Black-and-White Warblers, Collared Redstarts, Yellow-thighed Finch, two Black-faced Solitaires, Black-thighed Grosbeak, Dark Pewee, and many more. One couldn't decide where to look next, as so many birds flitted about us. Phew!

Following a bit of down time after lunch, we drove back uphill to bird along the road above the Lodge. Here we saw a target bird of many – a flock of beautiful Long-tailed Silky-Flycatchers. Birding at the feeders at Mirian's Café provided fabulous close views and photography of many species. Flame-colored Tanagers, Acorn Woodpeckers, Volcano Hummingbirds, Rufous-collared Sparrows, Sooty Thrushes, and Large-footed Finch were all at close range. Soaring over near the afternoon clouds was the resident race of Red-tailed Hawk. After hot drinks and pastry, we thanked Mirian and walked further up the road, finding more Long-tailed Silky-Flycatchers and two Yellow-bellied Siskins. Waiting nearby until sunset, we obtained incredible views of two Dusky Nightjars as they perched on fence posts to hunt at dusk. The day was capped back at the Lodge with a wonderful dinner among friends.

Day 6 – Trogon Lodge & Vicinity

Following a cup of coffee, we took an early short ride to a site where there has been recent nesting activity by some Quetzals. Again, no luck. After breakfast, we went to Savegre Lodge, where we were driven by 4-wheel drive vehicles up the forest road above the lodge. What a beautiful cloud forest! Mike heard an owl calling, and in short order Frank spotted a Costa Rican Pygmy-Owl (Photo: Frank Mantlik) fly into and out of a nest hole! We enjoyed lengthy scope views of this cute cinnamon-colored rufous-morph Owl sitting high on a tree snag. People tried their efforts at digiscoping. A Ruddy Pigeon flew through and was seen on a moss covered limb. Then Vernon led us up a forest trail, where we found an Ochraceous Pewee (a rare regional endemic species), Tufted Flycatchers at a nest, and a Chestnut-capped Brush-Finch among a mixed flock. Frank then spotted the Pygmy-Owl mating high on a different tree; this was a brown morph. Birding was productive as we walked back down the road and two Buffy Tuftedcheeks and a Ruddy Treerunner were seen, and a Golden-olive Woodpecker was heard. Returning back down to the lodge, we enjoyed views of Stripe-tailed Hummingbird, Osprey, three American Swallow-tailed Kites soaring, and a Yellow-bellied Siskin. It was a great morning of birding.

While finishing our late lunch back at Trogon, Christine came running in to tell us that a Quetzal had been seen on a nearby lodge trail. We summoned everyone in our group and while standing on the footbridge, had great views of the beautiful female Resplendent Quetzal (Photo: Frank Mantlik). Eureka! Cameras clicked. A short while later, Frank relocated the Quetzal in a tree at eye-level best visible from Yas and Ichiko's cabin porch. We thanked the couple from Ottawa who had found this prize. Vern alerted us to an American Dipper in the river below. Late afternoon rain showers didn't prevent us from trying once more to see a male Quetzal near the nest tree. No luck again, but a nice consolation prize was a trio of Emerald Toucanets. Our last dinner of the tour was a celebratory one.

Day 7 –Trogon – San Jose

Our last morning was a leisurely one. We took a pre-breakfast walk on the lodge trail along the Savegre River rapids. We had more views of some nice birds, heard the whistled song of a Black-billed Nightingale-Thrush, saw two Black Guans, and encountered a close covey of four Spotted Wood-Quail. Following breakfast, we took a group photo, loaded the van, and departed for San Jose. Staying longer in the valley of the Quetzal, Bruce and Mariana sang for us a beautiful song for Peace. Arriving at the airport, Vernon's wife, Ivania, and young daughters met us. Farewells ended the tour.

Many thanks to all of the participants for joining us and for making this tour a very successful and enjoyable experience. We hope to see you on another Sunrise Birding tour!
